Inside The Numbers

CompuBox doesn't officially track headbutts, but it seemed as though Cordova connected on a higher percentage of headbutt attempts than punches. (He only landed a paltry 13% of his punches.) Rivera did better, connecting on 25% of his punches. Cordova landed a headbutt that opened a cut over Rivera's left eye in the fourth round. Rivera was awarded a knockdown on what looked like a push in the same round. Cordova was penalized a point in the sixth round for repeated blows to the back of Rivera's head. Over the rounds 10 through 12, Cordova landed 24 power punches to Rivera's 7. One judge scored the fight 115-111 for Cordova, while the other two judges scored it 113-113 for a majority draw.
