Inside The Numbers

Damian Knyba took a unanimous decision over Andy Ruiz Jr. in Newark on volume — 848 punches thrown to Ruiz's 408, landing 191 to 119 (22.5% vs 29.2%).

Knyba's jab did the work: 720 thrown, 127 landed, against Ruiz's 59 of 260. The fight turned in round 7, when Knyba landed 35 total and went 25 of 32 on power shots (78%), then followed with 29 landed in the 8th. Those two rounds alone accounted for a third of his total connects.

Ruiz was competitive early — he edged rounds 1, 3 and 9 on landed punches and tied 4 and 5 — and his power numbers were nearly even (60 of 148 vs Knyba's 64 of 128), with a better body attack (26 landed to Knyba's 5). But his output never got above 43 thrown in any round, and Knyba controlled the closing three (22, 18, 19 landed to Ruiz's 9, 10, 8).
