Inside The Numbers

Australia's Goodman won the IBF "interim" super bantamweight title in a ferocious, high-contact war with former IBF bantamweight king Nishida in Tokyo. Goodman, normally a long-range stylist, showed off surprisingly superb infighting skills over long stretches, and though he paid the price with cuts around both eyes and a discoloration around one orb, he piled up the points against Nishida, who exceeded Goodman's output (78.3 punches per round to Goodman's 72.3) but couldn't match his accuracy (41%-31% overall, 16%-10% jabs, 47%-43% power). Goodman, who lost a point for butting in round eight), finished the fight ahead 356-289 overall, 331-255 power and 8-2-2 in the CompuBox round-by-round breakdown of total connects while Nishida, who was penalized a point in rounds eight and 10 for low blows, prevailed 34-25 in landed jabs and 118-108 in landed body shots. Scoring: 116-109, 115-110, 114-111 G.
