Inside The Numbers

Jalolov took the unanimous decision by out-landing Dacres 97 to 47 in total punches, connecting at 28.2 percent against Dacres' 17 percent. The gap was starkest in power punches, where Jalolov landed 78 of 135 for 57.8 percent while Dacres managed just 28 of 124 for 22.6 percent. Jalolov's ninth round was his best stretch, landing 12 of 36 overall and 11 of 14 power shots for 78.6 percent, a round that showed his finishing combinations at their sharpest. Dacres found his rhythm late, landing 10 of 37 in the tenth for 27 percent, his highest output of the fight, but it came too late to change the outcome. Jabs were the one even category, with each man landing 19, though Dacres was actually the more accurate jabber at 12.5 percent to Jalolov's 9.1 percent. That detail aside, the power punch disparity decided the fight.
